Brief History of Wortley Golf Club

The Wortley family has an important connection with the Golf Club.

In line with the increased popularity of golf amongst landed families and professional people during the latter part of the 19th Century, the 2nd Earl of Wharnccliffe, Francis John, founded the Club in 1894. It was originally a 9 hole course, extended in 1908 to 18 holes.

The 3rd Earl, Carlton Archibald, arranged for the course to be re-designed in 1930 by the eminent golf course architect Harry Colt and it gained its reputation as a fair and enjoyable challenge for all standards of golfers.

Fortunately for our members you no longer need to have a title to play on our course!

Members of Wortley Golf Club are justifiably proud of their classic course set in a totally pastoral environment.

First-time visitors to the course find it to be an oasis of peace in a busy world.

Walk down to the first tee through bluebells in April and flowering rhododendrons in May, then move into a world where time may seem for a while to be standing still.
