

NELSON GOLF CLUB

The course, designed by Doctor Alister MacKenzie, sits high on a moorland plateau in East Lancashire, providing a testing but satisfying golfing experience for all abilities.

Located conveniently between Nelson and Burnley, the club boasts far reaching views over the Ribble Valley, Pendle and the Yorkshire Dales and is widely considered to be one of the top venues in this part of the country, regularly hosting major amateur events.

The 18 hole, 6006 yard layout, consists of a front nine that encircles the course boundary, whilst the return sits within the loop.

The clever design means that the course plays mainly on the flat for easy walking and some wide fairways make the course accessible for everyone. Accomplished players will enjoy the challenge of the five par 3 holes and several tight dog legs, where a little more thought is required off the tee.

Extremely challenging when the wind blows and always beautiful, Nelson Golf Club is the perfect location to bring guests throughout the year
