The Health & Safety at Work Act 1974

It shall be the duty of every employer (The Club) to conduct his undertaking in such a way as to ensure, so far as is reasonably practicable, that persons (Members/Visitors) not in his employment who may be affected thereby are not exposed to risks to their health or safety.

Because the "Club" is a limited company it therefore has a duty to comply with the regulations as laid down in the Health & Safety at Work Act 1974, and subsequently it also therefore has a duty of care to all persons who enter its premises.

While primary responsibility for Health and Safety lies with the Club and others who create risks, members and visitors also have legal responsibilities to take care of their own health and safety and that of others who may be affected by their activities or omissions.

The Health & Safety Acts have as their base the written risk assessment and all persons using the premises (clubhouse, course etc.) have a duty to comply with the rules laid down for safety under the risk assessment. Risk assessments will be displayed on the notice board for your perusal but must not be removed from the locker room.

The purpose of a risk assessment is to help to determine what measures should be taken to comply with the Club's duties under the relevant statutory provisions. Basically the assessment should involve identifying the hazards present and the risk expresses the likelihood the harm from a particular hazard could cause members, visitors and others.

The subsequent action taken as a result of the assessment could be as follows:

- a) Take action to remove the hazard completely.
- b) Take action to reduce the severity of the hazard and thereby lessen the risk.
- c) Take action to inform people of the hazard/risks by way of warning notices, posters and signs.

One or more of these actions could be implemented at any given time.

First Aid kits are held in the Kitchen, Bar, and Professional's shop. An Accident Book is held in the Club Office and accidents of any sort must be reported to the General Manager at the earliest opportunity.

The practice area constitutes the mown area only, it does not include the bordering rough or trees. Practice shots should only be played in this mown area, not from the surrounding rough.

All practice shots played in the practice area should be played to a landing area within the practice area. Whilst it is recognised that some shots will inadvertently be sliced, hooked or thinned off the area, no shot should be deliberately played to land other than within the area.

No shots should be played to an area that cannot be observed by the player. Shots over the hill are particularly dangerous to players on the course.

Shots to the green on the main practice ground must only be played from within the area marked out for chipping practice. Shots from outside this area are strictly prohibited. Damage caused to the green must be repaired by the player. The practice ground is part of the course. Players on the course have priority over those using the practice facilities. Such players are entitled to the courtesy of playing their shot free of concern over practice balls landing in their vicinity. Therefore those practicing should suspend practice if there is any likelihood of a practice ball disturbing a player taking his shot.

5.11 CADDIES

Only bona fide caddies are permitted to accompany players on the course. Members using the services of a caddie must ensure that such a person observes the Club Dress Rules. In no circumstances may a caddie be a person under the age of 11 years.
